

The results from our program show an exponential difference in packets as the drop rates increase by 5% each time. Sending the same file each time, the drop rate of 50% will require 4.4 times the amount of bytes sent to send the file successfully. A small drop rate produced close results, but from 30% to 35% drop rate, the gap increased dramatically.